

City of Enid, Oklahoma chooses Cogsdale to provide a new Utility Billing Solution.

City of Enid, OK; Toronto, ON; June 2018 – Cogsdale Corporation, a division of N. Harris Computer Systems (Cogsdale), is pleased to announce that the City of Enid has chosen Cogsdale Customer Service Management for their new Utility Billing System project. The City's goal in searching for a new provider was to find a system that embraced modern technology, would help improve customer service, modernize their work order system, and decrease workload through automation. They also needed a system that would integration with Microsoft Dynamics, Neptune, and Xpress Billpay.

The City of Enid is located in Northwest Oklahoma, approximately 90 miles north from Oklahoma City and 120 miles west of Tulsa. The City has over 500 employees, and with a population of 50,000, is the 10th largest city in the state.

Implementation of the Cogsdale solution has already started, with a go-live date set for summer 2019. Casey Dowd, Director, Sales and Marketing stated: "The Cogsdale solution is the only utility-focused ERP built on the Microsoft platform. It is a fully integrated offering, with Microsoft Dynamics GP providing the core financial system. We have been working with the City of Enid for sometime, and are looking forward to the project, which will see us implement licenses and permits as part of our CIS Suite."
